

TWO MEN KILLED BY HIDDEN BLAST

Another Fatally Hurt and Six Others Injured by Explosion of Charge of Dynamite Existence of Which Had Been Forgotten.

Two men were instantly killed, a third was fatally injured and half a dozen others were more or less seriously hurt by the explosion of dynamite in a new sewer being built at Elmers place and Marmon avenue, Bronx, today.

The sewer, which is being built for the city by P. B. Stanton, a contractor, is far underground, and employed in it are fifty or more workmen. The men had hardly gone to work today when the sewer rang with a great explosion. The center of the sewer was raised and rocks, dirt and rafters of work buried high in air.

The workmen were thrown from their feet and many were rendered unconscious. Others were almost covered by the debris. There came cries for help and Policemen Holder, of the Tremont avenue station, ran to the sewer. The men who could run were then feeling from the smoking and partly buried sewer. Some one turned in an alarm and the police reserves were sent. Then came a call for all the ambulances from Fordham Hospital.

When something like quiet could be restored the police and physicians entered the excavation. There they found that two men, Charles Offero, of No. 183 Belmont avenue, and Giovanni Villanelli, of One Hundred and Sixty-seventh street and Belmont avenue, had been blown to atoms. A third, his skull crushed and dying, lay near. He was recognized as August Lattalder, who lives at One Hundred and Eighty-seventh street and Sherman avenue. He was taken to the hospital quickly, but the physicians said that his death was only a matter of a few hours. William Dennison, the engineer on the works, was also badly hurt, but it is thought he will recover.

The police and physicians then began the work of rescuing men who had been covered by the flying missiles. They took them to the street and half a dozen were found to be suffering from injuries that required immediate medical attention.

The cause of the explosion was due, so it was alleged, to the carelessness of some of the workmen. The police learned that at 6 o'clock last night there was a blast prepared which failed. No attempt was made to relight the fuse, the workmen meaning to bring about the explosion to-day. They had forgotten the existence of the charged drill hole when they entered their work thinking they were safe.

One of the workmen, who was said to be Offero, was over the charged hole when he pushed a crowbar down on the dynamite. Instantly there came the explosion, and the men who were either killed or rendered unconscious. The accident caused the greatest excitement among the workmen. Those who were not too badly hurt to run fled through the streets, their faces and bodies covered with blood. Many of them made their way to their homes and all of them refused to go back into the excavation. Work on the sewer has been stopped.

SALOON-KEEPER IS SHOT.

Frank Hinte Found Wounded and Police Suspect Attempted Suicide. Frank Hinte, twenty-seven years old, a saloon-keeper, who lived at No. 77 Lexington avenue with his brother-in-law, Joseph Kiser, and the latter's wife, was shot in the left breast in Kiser's apartment this afternoon. The police believe the man attempted suicide, but Kiser claims the shooting was an accident.

Hinte was talking to his sister in the dining-room when she had occasion to go into the parlor. A few moments later the woman heard a pistol and returning to the room, found her brother lying on the floor.

The injured man was taken to Bellevue Hospital. His condition is critical. No reason is known for the shooting if Hinte did inflict the injury.

THREE SCALDED BY BURSTING PIPE

Weak Spot in Steam Main in Brooklyn Rapid Transit Power House Gives Way and Workmen Are Injured.

While half a dozen men on a platform fourteen feet above the floor were working at the main steam pipe in the Thirty-ninth street power-house of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company today the pipe burst. Three of the men were severely scalded, and one, who jumped, sustained in addition to his burns a fracture of the right ankle.

The three whose hurts were serious were close to the weak spot in the pipe, and before they had any warning of danger they were overcome by steam. Henry Bralley, of No. 323 Forty-third street, leaped from the platform and landed in a heap on the concrete floor with his ankle broken and his flesh falling from his face and hands.

Julius Wolfe, the chief engineer, of No. 129 Forty-ninth street, and Charles Sotter, a machinist, of No. 222 Thirty-third street, were scalded about the face and hands, but they retained presence of mind enough to make their escape by the ladder, being assisted down by the men who had escaped with slight injuries.

Bralley was taken to Seney Hospital and Wolfe and Sotter to the Norwegian Hospital. The accident did not impair the power-house machinery and no delay to the cars of the system resulted.

CUT OUT A GUNBOAT.

BERLIN, March 11.—The Budget Committee of the Reichstag, after examining the naval appropriations for four days, has decided on reductions amounting to $2,000,000, including striking out one gunboat, which the Navy Department agreed to.

POOL-ROOMS NOT WHOLLY TO BLAME

Mayor McClellan Thinks that Telegraph Companies Which Furnished Racing Information Are Not Entirely Guiltless.

"If the telegraph companies are responsible for the conduct of the pool-rooms and similar places, as has been charged," said Mayor McClellan today, "I see no reason why they should be treated differently from other citizens. You may make it stronger. I think the company is even more liable to condemnation than ordinary citizens, as the men who control the telegraph companies are possessed, as a rule, of greater intelligence and larger responsibilities. If they can be reached by legislation, I am in favor of such legislation."

It was when the Mayor was informed that legislation holding the telegraph companies on the phone with pool-room keepers was being urged that the Mayor declared himself today.

The other day the Mayor said on the same subject: "Would you hold the telegraph companies accessories to the fact? That might furnish the solution of the pool-room evil, but the pool-room men even then might fall back on Brother Marcus for race-track information."
